Cozy.

Cozy Tonight Only—"The Other Woman," is a screen production of the novel by Nora Davis, in which Jerome Patrick takes the dual role of Langdon Kirven and John Gorham. The plot centers around Kirven, who has been missing for five years, and his wife, Avery, who still hopes for his return. During this time he has taken the name of John Gorman and has become the leading citizen of a Southern town. Suddenly, through mysterious circumstances, he sinks into a strange coma and emerges as Langdon Kirven. He hurries home, thinking that he had been gone only a few days, but to his dismay he soon finds that he had married and has a family as Gorham. His wife, though heart broken, tells him that his duty lies with his newly acquired wife and child, while she finds happiness with Spencer Ellis, a former suitor. Jane Novak is cast as Avery.

A comedy, "Teddy's Goat," completes the bill.

Tonight Only—The inside workings of a band of expert crooks is disclosed in "Blackmail," a Metro production from the story of Lucia Chamberlain in the Saturday Evening Post. The photodrama features Viola Dana as depicting the character of Flossie Golden, the daughter of a crook and a beautiful young adventuress who attempts to blackmail a wealthy young man into marrying her. When success seems assured, love upsets the plot, and with the aid of a brilliant young lawyer an entirely different turn is given the carefully laid plans of the band of underworld confederates. The picture carries scores of scenes of mile-a-minute action. Miss Dana is capably supported by Wyndham Standing in the leading male role.

Pathe News, Topics of the Day and Aesop's Fables are the other attractions featured.

Tonight, Friday and Saturday—Spotlights and spangles, champagne and cigarettes sums up Metro's latest production, "Peacock Alley," a glamorous drama of Parisian and New York night life. In gorgeous costumes and elaborate settings, Mac Murray takes the stellar part of Cleo, a Parisian dancer. The story opens in a small American village, shifts to Paris, back to the village and then to New York. It pictures the adventures of Cleo, who forsakes the praises and favors of the gay city of pleasure to become the wife of a small-town American youth only to find that her husband's people are scandalized at her and will have nothing to do with her. Then the youthful lovers try to make their way in New York but the big city proves full of trouble which the lovers finally solve, but not in the way that either expected. Monte Blue, Edmund Lowe and W. J. Ferguson are other prominent members of the cast.

A Sunshine comedy, "Business Is Business," opens the bill.
